

WHY BEING A SECURE LEADER MATTERS

BREAKFAST EVENT

OVERVIEW

Please join us for our Breakfast Event "Why Being a Secure Leader Matters".

People don't leave organisations, they leave leaders. Kylie Bell shares four years' research into "attachment theory" and leadership from her soon to be released book The Secure Leader. She shares research on the fast and detrimental impact of 'insecure' leadership behaviours. She shows how 'secure' leaders who cultivate secure relationships with their team members boost well-being and performance. It's clear that secure leaders are the best leaders.

Participants contribute to a table discussion and hear stories from peers about how they relate to the material while enjoying a delicious breakfast and some great coffee.

Friday, 17 November 2023

7.30am - 9.00am (arrive 7.00am)

CBD, Venue confirmed on enrolment

Free parking on-site

$75 per person (inclusive of GST)

“

What do our clients love most about attending Wren Learning's Breakfast Events?

"It was fantastic and very relevant topic. Great facilitator"

"Reinforcement of my practises and ideas"

"The diversity, yet commonality of the issues raised across industries"

"The knowledge of the speaker and the networking opportunity"

"A great insight into different organisations"

"The relevance to today's workplace challenges"

Kylie takes a fresh approach to developing leaders backed by years of experience as a leader of international teams in highly creative and pressured environments, and observation of leadership behaviour over a decade of working with organisations creating leadership professional development programs. Kylie's programs set her apart from others in her ability to translate evidenced based research into clear and actionable interventions.

Kylie has an undergraduate degree majoring in psychology, a Master's degree in organisational learning with further post graduate qualifications in positive psychology.

Kylie Bell
Presenter